- ▲ Goal: To ~~reveal~~ reveal the hidden living pressure behind Malaysia's progress by exploring poverty concentration, income inequality and household expenditure burden across states
- ▲ Target Audience: Policymakers, researchers and social planners.
- ▲ Introduction: Malaysia's development is often shown through national growth. However, these overall figures can hide uneven realities across states. Three open datasets from the government OpenDOSM were used in this visualisation: "Poverty by State", "Household Income by state", and "Household Expenditure by State".

Conclusion

- Poverty is geographically concentrated
- Mean income hides inequality when median is lower
- High expenditure can create hidden living pressure
